Connecticut Man Turns Out to Be 'Mad Bomber'

By MARK SHEEHAN and ED BUTLER

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — A clean-cut man in a blue suit told calmly today of 25 years of suffering and of being boiled up in a pot, then he confessed he is New York's "mad bomber."

George Metesky is his name. He's 53, a stocky and gray-haired. He said he made a vow a long time ago to go on planting bombs in New York until he either got caught or died.

"This is the man," said New York Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm. "We know him by his admissions. Secondly, we know him by a check of his handwriting."

He was booked on a fugitive charge and extradition proceedings were begun.

Arm said Metesky signed a written statement saying he is the man who, because he felt he got a raw deal from the company he used to work for, planted at least 32 bombs in public places in New York City since 1941.

Several of the bombs exploded. The toll, 15 persons injured, none critically.

Arm quoted Metesky as saying he never meant to kill anyone. The commissioner added that Metesky said he planted bombs in New York "whenever he felt like it."

With his gold-rimmed eyeglasses, Metesky could well have passed for a school teacher as he went over each bombing, one by one with police in Waterbury's police headquarters in all-night questioning. He was awakened from his bed shortly after midnight and taken in.

Arm said Metesky held a years-long grudge against the Consolidated Edison Co. of New York.

Metesky said he contracted pulmonary tuberculosis after he was gassed while working at the firm's Hill Gate plant in New York in 1931, according to Arm.

He claimed the company refused to take care of him and that was the reason he planted the home-made bombs, Arm said.

Among the first bombs to explode were some on Consolidated Edison property. The bombings date back to 1940, police said. Metesky was placed on company compensation roles in 1941.

Police have said letters accompanying many of the bombs. The bombs were mostly the pipe variety with a cheap watch for the timing mechanism. The letters complained the "mad bomber" never was compensated for crippling injuries sustained on the job.

They were signed "F. P."

Today, Arm quoted Metesky as saying "F. P." stood for "Fair Play."

AIDC Director Experienced in Development

"You've got to go out and look for industry and not wait for it to come to you," says William R. Rock, state director of Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, who will address the annual meeting of Hope Chamber of Commerce next Monday night.

Mr. Rock, an expert in his field of work, spent several years seeking industry for the cities of Chicago and Baltimore prior to his appointment as head of the Arkansas Industrial Commission about 18 months ago.

Announcement of Mr. Rock's visit, his first, was made last week by new Chamber of Commerce President Ray Turner.

Tickets are now on sale for the banquet which will be held in the High School cafeteria. Just contact the Chamber of Commerce office. More than 200 persons are expected.

Fire Destroys 10 Story Building in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Flames destroyed a huge grain elevator on Chicago's South Side with a loss estimated at "several million dollars."

The spectacular fire, fought by about 400 firemen in a driving rain, leveled the 10-story Continental Grain Co. structure at 94th St. and the Calumet River before it was brought under control early today.

Fire department officials said they expected the ruins would continue to smolder for several days. The elevator contained about three million bushels of grain.

About 100 pieces of apparatus, nearly a third of the city's equipment, including three fireboats, helped bring the fire under control.

The fire was one of the most spectacular in Chicago in several years. Police estimated more than 10,000 persons surged into the area to watch firemen battle the blaze.

Although they were unable to save the elevator, one of the oldest in Chicago, firemen succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading to a newly built elevator, also owned by Continental Grain Co., about 150 yards from the ruined structure. The new elevator contains about 3½ million bushels of wheat.

Julius Mayer, executive vice president of Continental, estimated the loss at "several million dollars."

Robert J. Quin, fire commissioner, estimated damage at five million dollars.

The flames from the elevator, fanned at times by strong winds, were visible nearly into the Loop, some 14 miles north, and attracted thousands of persons, despite the blustery weather.

Some 200 policemen, responding to the extra alarm, rerouted traffic and kept the crowd blocks from the blazing building.

No injuries were reported. However, a newsreel cameraman, Floyd Trynham, 61, of the Universal International Film Exchange, collapsed at the scene and was pronounced dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

Proposes a Board to Run State Colleges

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Some functions of the University of Arkansas and seven state-supported colleges would be coordinated under a 10-man Board of Control under a bill introduced in the Arkansas House yesterday.

The board would present a combined budget for the eight institutions to the Legislature and would have some authority to allocate "academic functions." Under the bill, introduced by Rep. J. H. Cottrell Jr. of Pulaski County, the board would negotiate agreements for out-of-state instruction.

The boards of each of the institutions would retain most of their present powers.

Another bill, authored by Rep. Paul Van Dalsem of Perry County, calls for a new vice president of the University of Arkansas to supervise medical affairs. The vice president would have direct charge of the Medical Center here and would be "assisted" by a 7-member advisory board.

Best Chance to Land Husband Is in the South

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That ladies seeking a husband may find the best hunting in the United States in the South.

There, census figures show, five of six women of marriageable age already have landed a man, but one of every four men is still single.

That only half the nation's professional men — such as doctors, lawyers and architects — make a will before they die. Do they hope to figure out a way to take it with them?

That soap is believed to have first come into limited use about the time of Christ. Infant mortality today is lowest in countries having the largest per capita use of soap.

That the $20 bill is the only one that has a picture of the White House on it. It also bears the portrait of Andy Jackson, a Democratic President, but Democrats complain only Republicans can afford to see it.

That among other souvenirs of her fabulous career Kate Smith has a $100,000 collection of antiques.

That the mountain goat is perhaps the only horned mammal that regularly sits on its haunches. This item, I know, will bring me $10 letters from secretaries saying, "How about the old goat sitting on his haunches and if he doesn't have horns, he ought to!"

That an easy way to take an unused stamp from an envelope is to use it as a bookmark.

Missing Boy Is Found Unhurt

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A little boy and his dog, lost in the rain outside Little Rock all night, were found this morning, weary and frightened but unharm.

More than 1,000 persons took part in the search before the boy, 8-year-old Clay (Butch) Howard, and his beagle hound were found about four miles from home by Deputy Sheriffs L. B. Tobin and George Garrett.

The boy said he spent the night in a barn.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Howard, disappeared around 4 p.m. yesterday while hunting 400 yards from home and his parents reported him missing about three hours later.

A huge posse searched the rain-soaked woods, north of state highway 10 about 12 miles west of here, throughout the night.

Tobin and Garrett spotted the boy about 9 a.m. as they were driving along a country road.

Hospital attendants said young Howard suffered no ill effects.

Israel Troops Pull Out of Sinai Desert

JERUSALEM, Israel, (UP) — Israeli troops pulled out of the Sinai desert today. They withdrew as far as the Gaza strip and a 100-mile-long coastal region guarding Israel's shipping route through the Gulf of Aqaba.

A new frontier of white-painted oil drums and barbed wire marked the two contested areas which Israel says it will not give back to Egypt without firm guarantees against future aggressive activity.

Reliable reports reaching here said the mass withdrawal of the Israeli forces was completed by 2 p.m. (7 a.m. EST). Troops of the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF) moved in right behind the departing Israeli units.

But, instead of following the pre-invasion armistice line from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea, the Israelis marked out their frontier to cut off the Gaza strip and a protective area along the Gulf of Aqaba. The latter ribbon of beach in the South, formerly used for Egyptian gunships which barred Israeli shipping from the Gulf.

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said no further withdrawal was planned.

The United Nations General Assembly had called for complete evacuation of the entire Sinai, including the Gaza and Aqaba strips.

County Cotton Farmers Meet Here Thursday

The best cotton information available will be discussed on Thursday morning with Hempstead County farmers with cotton allotments who will be making a lot of decisions during the next few weeks announced County Agent Oliver L. Adams today.

"The Price and the Future of United States Cotton," a new film prepared by the National Cotton Council, will be shown beginning at 9:30 in the county courtroom. University of Arkansas Cotton Specialist William E. Woodall will introduce and discuss any questions regarding the film.

The Soil Bank 1957 Acreage Reserve program will be explained by County ASC Office Manager Cecil Guthrie. As Hempstead County farmers may begin February 4 to enter into acreage reserve agreements on a "First come, first served" basis, this information should prove very timely in showing individual farmers how the Soil Bank reserve might apply to his own cotton operations in 1957.

Cotton Specialist Woodall will give attention to production practices such as fertilizer placement, chemical weed control, and other information requested by producers in attendance.

The Thursday morning cotton meeting was arranged at a meeting of the cotton subcommittee of the County Agricultural Planning Committee in early January by cotton producers Bill Routon, Jesse C. Burke, Herman Worthington, E. C. Coleman and Carl Hinton.

As the special cotton film will be started at 9:30, County Agent Adams urges all cotton producers to be present at that hour.

Strange Fate for Resolution to Probe PSC

State Capital Bureau

LITTLE ROCK, (Special) — A rule never before heard of in the Arkansas House of Representatives was invoked today to avert a vote on a proposed resolution for an investigation of the Arkansas Public Service Commission.

The resolution, which was introduced by Rep. Hardy Croxton of Benton county, would authorize the House Public Service Investigations Committee go investigate rate-making policies of the PSC and ownership of utility stock by state officials and employees.

The rule invoked was one requiring that resolutions called for investigations shall first be cleared with the Rules Committee. A brief parliamentary wrangle resulted in the resolution being sent to that committee even though it had already gone to the Resolutions Committee and was returned by that group without recommendation.

The hassle developed when Croxton moved that the rules be suspended and the resolution be made a special order of business for later in the morning.

Rep. Carroll Hollenworth of Bradley county, raised the point that the probe resolution should have gone to the Rules Committee, asserting this was required by the rules of the national House of Representatives, which are embraced by the Arkansas House.

Speaker Glenn Walther asked Parliamentarian Nell Boghlinger for an interpretation and the latter concurred in the Hollenworth view.

The Rules Committee includes Hollenworth, chairman; Van Dalsem of Perry, vice-chairman; Butchell of Prairie, Bynum of Chicot, Crank of Little River, Durrett of Union, Fleeman of Mississippi, Leebetter of Pulaski, Willis of Crawford.

Today's development which for the time being and perhaps permanently buries the resolution came after an intensive canvass of members by representatives of Stephens, Inc., and Arkansas Gas Co., W. R. Stephens, chairman of the Ark-La board has dominated Ark-La policies since acquiring control through a stock purchase from Cities Service Company in December, 1954.

Many members of the House confided they had been asked to keep the resolution from being debated on the floor. They were told it was a "spite" measure. Croxton insists that his only object is to inquire into the basis for revolutionary rate-making decisions of the Public Service Commission since 1954 this bureau reported several months ago — and it was never denied — that several high

Nashville Man Injured in Accident Here

A Nashville man, Louis TIGAN, suffered a head injury about 10 a. m. today when the auto in which he was riding collided with a truck on Highway 67, west, near Hope City limits.

He was treated at a local hospital and released. Two other men, Autrey Castleberry of Nashville, driver of the car involved and William H. Paulkner, DeKalb, Texas, driver of the truck were not hurt.

State Policeman Guy Downing said the Nashville men were traveling east toward Hope when the truck pulled onto Highway 67 from a roadside cafe. He said Castleberry, hit his brakes and the auto went into a spin and collided with the truck. Both vehicles were heavily damaged.

Assisting in the investigating were Chief of Police Brown and Officer Rowe of the local department.

Gans, Near the Arkansas Border Levelled Today

GANS, Okla. (AP) — Eight persons were killed today by an out-of-season tornado that smashed the tiny farm community near the Arkansas border before dawn.

Two families were hardest hit, one with four dead and the other with three.

At least a dozen others were injured.

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A tornado struck near Princeton, La., today killing one person and injuring a number of others.

Reports to the Shreveport Journal from the area said the twister struck a group of children and several of them were missing.

Some of the injured were taken to a hospital at Minden and others to Confederate Memorial Hospital here.

Princeton is in Bossier Parish, 18 miles east of Shreveport.

Two other twisters struck in eastern Oklahoma, destroying some property but there were no casualties.

The National Guard, Highway Patrol and county officers rushed to Gans, which has a population of about 600.

Six houses were demolished, including those of the victims who were still sleeping when the twister swooped down through heavy-laden clouds.

A tornado forecast had been issued for the area by the U. S. Weather Bureau. A cold front from the northwest swept into Oklahoma. Record temperatures in the 70s were reported yesterday.

Counter Proposals to Faubus' Tax Program

By ADREN COOPER

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus' 3-pronged tax program was introduced and passed yesterday while House members fished up with numerous ideas of their own to the methods to be used to raise additional revenue.

The Faubus bills—an increase from 2 to 3 per cent in the sales tax, an increase in severance taxes and a revised method of computing income taxes—are designed to raise an additional 22 million dollars a year for education, welfare and other state services.

The varied House tax proposals included only one bill that carried the administration label: a proposal to increase the driver's license fee from $1 to $2 per year, that measure received a unanimous vote of approval from the House.

Revenue and Taxation Committee, although the committee, headed by Chairman Paul Van Dalsen of Perry County, voted to send all other House taxation bills back to the House floor without recommendation.

After a brief wrangle, the Faubus bills were referred to the Senate Taxation and Revenue Committee and the head of that committee, Sen. Lee Bearden of Leachville, later announced that a public hearing would be held on the sales tax bill Monday night.

The unexpected test of the Faubus program came shortly after Bearden had introduced the sales tax proposal. Sen. Glenn Lee of Prescott objected to the second reading of the bill—usually a routine procedure. Since a bill must be read three times before a vote can be taken, both proponents and opponents of a measure usually wait until the third reading before they start open warfare.

After Lee objected, Bearden asked for a suspension of the rule be read twice in one day. A voice vote was inconclusive, and Lt. Gov. Nathan Gordon asked for a standing vote. Gordon reported the standing vote was 23-6, three more than the necessary two-thirds of those present and voting.

There were similar objections on each of the other three administration measures, although no other standing votes were taken.

Faubus said that the vote was an indication of how the bill would fare when it comes up for a vote—probably next week, although senators were pretty well divided on the importance of the vote.

The most that opponents of the measure could have gained would have been a 1-day delay.

In addition to the three tax proposals, the fourth administration proposal is a "stabilization act," which specifies where the additional revenue would be allocated.

Faubus has estimated that the sales tax increase would produce an additional 18 million dollars, the income tax revision five million and the severance tax increase one million.

Identical bills to put livestock and poultry feed back under the sales tax were introduced by Sens. Dan White of Fort Smith and Aric Gregory of Little Rock, and the House also received two such proposals. The bills would repeal a 1955 act which had strong backing from Faubus.

The House bills proposed various methods for increasing revenue from the income and sales taxes—ranging from a 50 per cent increase in the income tax rate to extension of the sales tax to virtually every service or commodity. The 50 per cent income tax increase bill was introduced by Van Dalsen.

About 30 services and goods now exempt from the sales tax would be taxed under a bill introduced by Rep. John Bethell of Prairie County, who said that he tried "not to leave out anything."

Items that would be taxed under the measure include professional services of lawyers and physicians, repair bills on automobiles, plumbing and electrical appliances, sale of used cars and the services of barbers and others.

Rep. Talbot Field Jr. of Hempstead County said that he would support Bethell's measure, but he introduced another bill as an alternative in case the Bethell bill does not pass. Field's proposal does not include as many services and commodities.

Another proposal by Field would set up a coupon system of paying the sales tax. Sellers would pay the tax in advance by buying coupons and passing them on to customers as a "receipt" for payment of the tax. He contended that this would tighten up collections and thereby bring in an additional 10 million dollars per year.

A discount given to sellers for prompt remittance of the sales tax would be discontinued under another House measure. Another income tax proposal was advanced by Rep. Claydon Little of Benton County, who favors lowering the present exemptions from $2,500 to $1,200 for a single person and from $3,500 to $2,400 for married couples.

That would mean an increase of at least $13 for single taxpayers who have $2,500 or more taxable income (after deductions) and at least $11 for each married couple with more than $3,500 taxable income.

Little also proposed a compulsory withholding plan—similar to the federal system.

The administration proposal differs from the Van Dalsen and Little bills in that the "increase" would be effected by revising the method of computing the tax. No exemptions would be allowed but tax "credits" of $17.50 for a single person and $35 for a married couple would be subtracted from the tax bill.

For example, a married couple with $4,500 taxable income (after deductions) now pays a tax of $10. This is figured by deducting the $3,500 exemption and taking one per cent of the remaining $1,000. The rate is one per cent for the first $3,000, two per cent of the second $3,000, etc., up to 5 per cent.

Under the Faubus measure, a couple would compute the tax on the $4,500 before subtracting the tax "credit." The tax would be $60, less the $35 credit, for a net tax of $25 as compared to the present 10.

The net tax increase would be greater for a single person.

Uproar of today's wrangle was that the resolution was sent to the Rules Committee for consideration even though it had already gone to the Resolutions Committee and was returned by that group without recommendation.

Rep. Carroll C. Hollensworth of Bradley County, chairman of the Rules Committee, raised the point that the resolution should have been sent to his group in the first place.

He was upheld, by Speaker Glen Walker who said that under House rules all matters relating to Arkansas today was threatened with an afternoon of turbulent weather as cold arctic air advanced toward the state.

Thunderstorms were forecast for all portions of the state, except northwest Arkansas, in the wake of a treacherous tornado that ripped into the area around tiny Gans, Okla., near the Arkansas line. The twister killed at least eight and injured a dozen more persons.

Heavy rains fell across the state yesterday and today. Clinton in Van Buren County recorded 3.5 inches for the 24 hours that ended at 7 a.m. today.

Other rainfall measurements included 2.70 at Walnut Ridge, 1.20 at Pine Bluff, .63 at Little Rock, .39 at Fayetteville, .47 at Texarkana and .03 at El Dorado.

Let's see the decisive factors in the '57 Inner Ford

They show you why the new kind of Ford is worth more when you buy it, worth more when you sell it!

The secret of Ford's nationwide success is this: it's a new kind of Ford... new from the wheels up... more than a last year's model with a few "face lift" changes. In a Ford the chassis, engine and body are individually engineered into one spacious, rock-solid unit. That's why, when you examine the new Inner Ford, you find a car that's new... clean through!

If you're a careful car-buyer with whom features count, count the new features of the '57 Ford. Then drive it! There's only one conclusion: the loveliest, liveliest car in the low-price field is the completely new Ford. For the decisive facts, see your Ford Dealer.

North Carolina Tops, Kansas Second, SMU 6

By The Associated Press
Unbeaten North Carolina, once merely the second best team in its state, today was No. 1 in the latest Associated Press poll, a happy situation which immediately set Tar Heel Coach Frank McGuire to worrying.

The Tar Heels (15-0) leaped ahead of Kansas, season-long poll leaders, after the Jayhawks dropped a 39-37 decision last week to Iowa State. It was the first Kansas loss after 12 victories.

McGuire said he was happy about the selection, but "a little concerned too. It's quite a load for my boys to carry. The kids may be pressing from now on in order to maintain top ranking."

McGuire's Atlantic Coast Conference leaders, inactive during mid-term exams, will resume play Feb. 5. For past few years, North Carolina has played basketball second fiddle to North Carolina State. State this year has slumped to the ACC second division.

Sportswriters and sportscasters voting in the poll gave North Carolina 79 of 120 first-place votes and 1,109 points. Kansas was left with 9 firsts and 928 points on the basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Iowa State climbed from ninth to third on the basis of its win over Kansas, earning 8 firsts and 682 points.

Louisville moved into the fourth spot vacated by Kentucky, which dropped to fifth. Southern Methodist fell to sixth from third.

UCLA, Seattle, Illinois and Bradley, in order, filled out the top 10. Rankings are based on games through Saturday, Jan. 19.

The top 10, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. North Carolina (79) 1,109
2. Kansas (9) 928
3. Iowa State (8) 682
4. Louisville (7) 630
5. Kentucky (2) 549
6. SMU (1) 475
7. UCLA (1) 403
8. Seattle (5) 297
9. Illinois 270
10. Bradley (3) 178

The second 10, in order: Wake Forest, Ohio State, Vanderbilt, Canisius, Duke, Oklahoma City, West Virginia, Tulane, California and Western Kentucky.

Pettit Leads Pro Cagers in Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) Defending champion Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks has reopened his scoring leadership in the National Basketball Association to 50 points over Philadelphia's Paul Arizin, league statistics showed today.

Pettit, who has led from the early weeks, scored 135 points in five games last week to boost his total to 1,117. Arizin, playing in only three, scored 81 and remains with about nine minutes remaining.

Husky Frank Howard had 23 points and Larry Huston had 20. Wisconsin's Bob Litwiz took game honors with 28.

Bobcats Best Bearden in Magnolia Tourney

Hope's mighty Bobcat quintet fired the opening salvo last night by blasting Bearden 67 to 46 in the Southern State College Invitational Tournament at Magnolia.

This win placed Coach Wayne Taylor's boys in the quarter-finals and a game Thursday night at 7:45 p. m. Hope's opponent will be the winner of the Taylor-Thorn-ton game which will be played Wednesday night at 8:30 p. m.

Larry Bruce led the scoring parade with 16. David Watkins made 12. Jerry Franks 10. Jimmy Hollis with 9, all in the final period. Jimmy May and Perry Purdie with 4 each and Tommy Polk with 2. H. Thompson was high for second with 1,058. Pettit still has played one game less than the Philadelphia star and as a result has a comfortable lead in per game average, with 27.2 to Arizin's 25.2.

Both during the week passed the 1,000 mark for the season and two other regular members of the scoring elite, veterans Dolph Schayes of Syracuse and Ed Macauley of St. Louis, reached a pay milestone previously inhabited only by George Mikan, now retired.

Schayes increased his career total to 10,041 points and Macauley ran his to 10,017. Each is playing his eighth NBA season.

Clyde Lovellette, kingpin of the Minneapolis attack, fell from the No. 4 spot in scoring to sixth. Lovellette has played in 39 games and scored 860 points for a 22.1 average.

Owens of A&M New Coach at Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) Jim Owens, 30-year-old assistant at Texas A&M, will arrive here in about a week to take over his new duties as head football coach at the University of Washington.

Owens' appointment to the post as successor to Darrell Royal was announced last night by George Briggs, athletic director at Washington. Royal, who attended Oklahoma University with Owens, left Washington last month after one season to become head coach at Texas.

Briggs declined to disclose salary terms.

Royal came here under a 4-year contract calling for $17,000 a year. Owens is the third head football coach Washington has had in a year. Royal had succeeded John Cherberg, who was fired a year ago. Cherberg was elected lieutenant governor of the state on the Democratic ticket last November and took that office this month.

The Washington post is the first to report Owens' appointment.

Next week will be a big basketball week in Hope's new Jones Field House. On Tuesday night, Jan. 29, Ashdown comes to Hope for 2 games. Wednesday night, Jan. 30, there will be an outstanding college game between Southern State and Texarkana College. Friday night, Feb. 1, DeQueen comes to Hope for 2 games, A and B teams.

How Texas Eastern helps put the bite in Nicholson files

A hard-biting Nicholson file has plenty of sharp teeth to sink into a job—because Texas Eastern helped put the heat on.

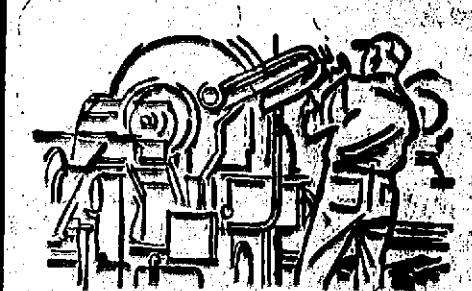

Texas Eastern transports natural gas via pipeline from the Southwest for Nicholson File Company's Providence, R. I., plant. Here it is used in forging, annealing, hardening and finishing—in every heat-treating process used in making files.

Nicholson prefers natural gas because it is clean and doesn't have to be stored in the plant. Above all, gas heat can be closely regulated—a must in making a fine file—whether it's a coarse rasp or a delicate Silversmith's Riffler.

XXXII

Cass thought about what Sue had said to her last night. And, as she thought, indignation re-fueled, returning itself with each contemplation of Sue's charge. "Some of your mistakes are dillies," had said Sue.

Let people like Sue Knapp be given such problems as had fallen to Cass, and see what mistakes they would make! No one—literally no one could talk understandingly of such a situation unless she had experienced it.

As the minutes went by, she began to talk aloud, and someone in the kitchen heard her. "I thought to my soul it was Miss Gordy!" said Cass.

Cass stopped short. Aunt Cordy used to go about talking to herself. Only last night, Marcy had said, and impudently, "Cass, you sound just like Aunt Cordy!"

At nine, she was somewhat surprised to have Marcy and Jake, hand in hand, show up in the dining room for breakfast. Jake was fresh-shaven, with a clean white shirt, Marcy was crisp in a yellow linen dress and white pumps.

"Good morning, Cass," they said in unison.

Then—"Weather's still pretty slimy, isn't it?" said Marcy blithely.

"Are the roads open?" asked Jake.

"I have a man cutting up that tree—you'll be able to get out in an hour," said Cass. "Marcy, did you call the shop?" She noted how radiant the two were.

Cass smiled at them vaguely, went into the kitchen, and came back—still preoccupied.

"What's wrong with you?" Marcy asked her.

"Nothing," said Cass shortly. "Oh, I'm busy."

"That doesn't explain your fingernail chewing," said Marcy. Involuntarily, Cass lifted her hand, then clenched it.

"Oh, something Sue said last night upset me. Of course she was in a mood to lash out at someone—but even then I don't see how I can be accused of making mistakes—she called them dillies—when I've been trying harder than anyone knows to do the right thing."

"Oh," said Marcy, butting a biscuit. "You do make some downright gaudy mistakes. Some of 'em are just silly, but the others—why, I'd say, on the whole, your batting average might come darn close to Aunt Cordy's. And that's the world record." She ate half the biscuit, picked up the other half and reached for the strawberry jam.

Cass drew in her breath in shocked protest. "Marcy Ward!" she cried. "You rude, you impudent—" Her voice stopped as if a switch had been turned.

She had sounded like Aunt Cordy! She did sound like her.

"If this is some joke, Marcy—" she began, her lips stiff with affront.

"No," said Marcy, considering the chosen word. "Not a joke, dear, it's more—I'm quite sure—an honest mistake on your part."

"I've things to do this morning," said Cass, coldly patient, "but even so I believe I must ask you for an explanation of that, Marcy."

She did love telling it, the whole farcical situation—and Cass listened to her, stuned, horrified.

"But—you two—" she gasped. "No," said Marcy, sweetly. "Nevertheless, Jake's all set to make an honest woman of me."

With that, Jake Parmenter had had enough. He pushed his chair back and stood up, his smile rueful. "I need some air," he announced his retreat from this feminine skirmish.

"He's Jake Parmenter," said Marcy quickly. "Major Jake Parmenter, Army Intelligence. You see, the Army is looking for Lee."

"Your husband?" Cass's attention sharpened.

"Lee Powers. Lately of the U. S. Army. Now—well—in eternal is on the lam. Oh, Cass—the guy's no good! He never was! And—well, it appears that—while the Army decided it wanted no more of the guy, now they feel they have to find him. He's still wearing his uniform and calling himself Captain Powers, and—well, they want him! And they sent Jake here—"

"He's a policeman?"

"Army Intelligence, darling. Lee—Lee's no piker, when it comes to getting into trouble. This time it's forger—government vouchers and stuff. So they sent an Army Intelligence officer here to see if I had any idea of where and how Lee might be found."

"Do you know?"

"Lord, no!" cried Marcy. "But—oh, they didn't expect to find him here! But they wanted me to give them any names of possible contacts of his here in the States. You know—friends, and things like that. Places where he'd lived. A man talks of such things to his wife, you see, and—"

"But," worried Cass, "if they catch him—you must be careful, Marcy. Any sort of trial would—as they will—the whole story is going to come out. And the world will know what I am—well as all about him. I can't tell that story—I haven't been able to tell it myself. My friends—my family—as you suggest, I couldn't bring myself to testify against the man I was fool enough to marry. I couldn't even speak of him—"

"It was—bad, Marcy?" asked Cass softly.

"It couldn't have been worse," Marcy assured her solemnly. (To Be Continued)

Accurate 10-Year Rain Forecasts a Possibility

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A veteran solar researcher says he has found a way to forecast fairly accurately the rainfall of a community for as much as 10 years in advance.

Such a system of forecasting if established in about 30 areas east of the Rocky Mountains could be of enormous value, he asserts.

The method was developed by Dr. Charles G. Abbott, research associate for the Smithsonian Institution. He reported it in the Journal of Solar Engineering Science and Engineering. This is a new publication sponsored by the Assn. For Applied Solar Energy, with headquarters here.

Dr. Abbott, who is 85 and has been studying solar problems for more than a half century, says weather bureau officials and professional meteorologists doubt the value of his method but adds that he has checked its accuracy by "forecasting" the weather of past years.

The procedure is based upon his finding that variations in weather are identical with minute changes in the amount of solar radiation reaching the earth's surface.

Variations ranging from 1-50 of 1 per cent to 1-4 of 1 per cent in solar radiation are paralleled, Dr. Abbott says, by changes of 5 to 25 per cent in normal average rainfall and by 1 to 5 degrees in temperature fluctuations.

Weather men generally do not believe that such small solar changes can produce such large weather variations. Dr. Abbott says. Nevertheless, he asserts that his forecasting based on this idea has been 50 to 90 per cent correct.

The sharp peaks and valleys of daily weather graphs have to be averaged and "smoothed out" before they will match the solar graphs of the same dates. The weather lags behind the solar activity by varying lengths of time, depending on the community, the condition of the atmosphere, the extent of sunspots at the time and even the activities of the populations of large metropolitan areas, Dr. Abbott says.

Duluth, an iron ore and grain loading port, is celebrating its 100th anniversary.
